To the office this morning for further consideration of the GDR plane matter.

Fritz Molden joined the Green party and ourselves for lunch. The Senator was [redacted] interested in his description of his stay in Budapest during the revolution. Toward the end he was thrown into jail by the Soviets when they returned to the city, but was finally released. He is going back to Vienna tonight.

Eddie Lobkowitz and his daughter stopped by for tea on their way to Duesseldorf, where he is taking a short treatment for arthritis. I had not seen him for many years. This former Pole is completely readjusted to his life in America and spends a pleasant vacation each year in Europe shooting or staying with his polyglot relatives at what remains to them of properties in Austria, Germany and Italy.
